Developer Impact Fee Proposed

By Frank Messina

The Board of Selectmen gave blanket support Monday night for town-generated warrant articles in next month's town meeting.

In a meeting marked with confrontation between town officials and the audience, the selectmen went over the 79-article agenda in slightly over two hours. The only items not approved were those held for more information and private articles.

At first, Chairman William Downs appeared reluctant to permit public comment.

The town meeting warrant has been available for several weeks, said Downs, adding that citizens have had plenty of time to ask questions.

His position wasn't popular with League of Women Voters President Ruth Scarbeau. Backed by others in the audience, she loudly denied that the public has had a chance to give their input on the town warrant.

Daffodil Festival Will Assist Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society will bring a welcome touch of spring to the Greater Lawrence area during the Daffodil Festival March 20 to 26.

Just as the daffodil signals hope for the coming of spring, it has become the symbol of hope for cancer patients. Proceeds from the Daffodil Festival provide a large share of the support for the society's ongoing cancer control programs.

Field-grown in the state of Washington and flown here, the daffodils will be distributed on March 23 to hospitals, nursing homes and senior citizen centers through the generosity of business people, said Ann Grecoe, chairman of the Greater Lawrence unit of the daffodil committee.

Enrichment Program Proposed

The Andover School-aged Child Care Committee will present its proposal for an enrichment and recreation program for elementary school-aged children to school principals and Dr. Seifert within a few weeks.

The program, designated KIDS CLUBS (KICKS), will offer appropriate activities for the different aged children before and after school at a reasonable cost to parents. The program will be self-supporting and make annual payments to the school for space usage.

In addition to providing quiet time for homework, supervised on-going projects and free play, there will be enrichment programs offered by specialists in science, drama and art. Daily recreation time will be available under the supervision and direction of staff members.

The committee hopes the clubs will become an important and positive part of the child's school day and, working closely with school administrators and teachers, is prepared to implement pilot clubs in selected elementary schools this fall. Expansion to all elementary schools is planned for the following year.

For further information, contact Sharon Checrallah, 11 Countryside Way.

Historian To Discuss Ballardvale

By Virginia Lopez Begg

The historic village of Ballardvale is the subject of the Andover Historical Society's Sunday, March 5, program from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. "Ballard Vale in its Heyday," a slide-tape presentation, researched and narrated by local historian Ruth Sharpe, tells the story of the varied events that have shaped this section of Andover. Part of the society's First Sunday series, the program will be held at their headquarters, the historic Amos Blanchard House, 97 Main St. There is a small admission fee for non-members.

Ballardvale owes its establishment to its favored location on the Shawsheen River. The river, which ran swiftly in the 19th century, provided water power for the mills built along its banks, much as the Merrimack did in Lowell and Lawrence. White wool flannel was produced in Ballardvale, to be made into garments worn by the gentility, for whom it was the only proper summer attire.

Other factories were also located in Ballardvale. Bronze lamp bases and sculptures, formed and polished by German immigrants, were produced by the thousands. Blue-decorated stoneware, now sought after by antique collectors, was also manufactured for a brief period in the late 19th century. The society has a number of fine examples in its collections.

Life was not all work in Ballardvale. Sharpe, long-time resident, describes the village in its heyday, as reported in old books and newspapers. Fourth of July parades, led by the village butcher in his old army uniform and accompanied by six little girls, chosen for their beauty and intelligence, are but part of the old-fashioned American charm Ballardvale typified.

There was an ill-fated attempt to produce silk. Silkworms were imported and mulberries planted to feed them. While the investors dreamed of fortunes made and mentally spent their millions, the silkworms died, unable to eat the only mulberries hardy in this climate. A less innocent mistake was made in an attempt to capitalize on the rage for mineral waters which swept the country 100 years ago. The touted Ballardvale mineral water was artificially "mineralized" by an underground pipe adding lithium to the water.

The Andover Historical Society's program will show such snippets about life in the old village as well as views of homes and other buildings in the area. Many 19th-century American architectural styles can be seen on the streets of Ballardvale and will be described along with the people who built them.

The fifth in the six-lecture decorative arts course, co-sponsored by the Andover Historical Society, the North Andover Historical Society and the Stevens-Coolidge Place, will take place at the Andover Historical Society on Tuesday, March 7, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Dorothy-Lee Jones, founder of The Jones Museum of Glass and Ceramics in Sebago, Maine, will speak on "American Glass and Ceramics." Her illustrated lecture will be followed by a brief and informal presentation of related selections from the society's collection. While no space is available for this lecture, a limited number of seats remain for the last lecture on collecting antiques on March 14. Reservations are required. Call the Andover Historical Society for reservations or further information.

SHED Awareness Campaign Underway

A committee of Andover parents has launched a major public awareness campaign to encourage residents to support the Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) Program's efforts to relocate on the Shawsheen School campus.

The group will use speaking presentations, flyers, brochures, committee networking, fundraising and press releases to get residents' support of SHED's relocation efforts at the School Committee meeting March 7 and at Town Meeting.

SHED, a non-profit, enrichment child care program for kindergarteners, has leased two classrooms in the Shawsheen School for five years. Due to enrollment projections for the next few years, the school system has notified SHED that those classrooms will not be available after June 1989.

According to Sydney Bialo, executive director of SHED, a committee of concerned parents has examined numerous relocation options with the placement of a supplemental classroom on the Shawsheen campus being the most feasible and beneficial to parents and children.

When SHED originally launched its program, it obtained a loan from the town, which was repaid in full within one year. SHED is now asking the town, through a warrant at Town Meeting, to assist in securing financing for the classroom. The funding assistance will be totally repaid at no cost to taxpayers or the town.

Financially self-sufficient through student tuition, SHED will use its money for the classroom's down payment and plans to organize a major fundraising campaign to augment tuition income to pay for the rest.

Before town meeting, SHED needs approval from the School Committee to place the supplemental classroom on the campus.

"By remaining on the school campus, SHED eliminates parent's transportation worries about busing children between child care and school. In addition, we'll continue our close interaction with the school staff which allows for greater coordination of curriculum, discipline procedures and expectations. This is particularly helpful to children who may be having a difficult time adjusting to kindergarten," Bialo explained.

"As an enrichment program for children who are ready for a full day of semi-structured activity, SHED also offers child care assistance. Having a child in kindergarten poses many dilemmas for working parents. Classes are only two and a half hours long and then half way through the year the children switch from morning to afternoon session and vice versa. Parents worry about who's going to greet their children when they get off the bus. And even if parents get it straightened out for half the year, they have to worry about it all over again when their child changes sessions. It can be a nightmare. But for five years now Andover has had an excellent solution—the SHED program. It would be a giant step backward to lose it now," stated Lois Karfunkel of Orchard Crossing, chairman of the Save Our SHED Committee.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

During the first three months, all infants spend a great deal of each day in the crib. Therefore, it is important to give your baby interesting things to look at while he's in his crib. It is a good idea to put highly colored pictures on the walls around the crib. Shiny, bright fabric or foil can be hung from the sides of the crib for the first six weeks of life. Mobiles can be hung above the crib, but they cannot reach them. Everything a baby grabs goes straight into his mouth.

You will find the furniture to suit your decor at TINY TOTLAND. We carry baby furniture by Simmons, Childcraft, Bassett & Morigaux. Baby toys...everything from "heaven to seven". Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9. Free lay-a-way plan. Over 80 cribs are on display at TINY TOTLAND, 1111 Elm St., Manchester, N.H. Open 9-5:30 Mon. & Th. 9-9. IF YOU'RE A BUSINESS IN SEARCH OF A BANK...

"Two days later

hours, we had our loan."

Mike Forbes, manager
founder and president of A J Sports, discuss the attractions of collecting baseball cards with Sheila McCarthy, commercial lending officer, Arlington
Trust Company.

When Al Forbes went home the day before his wedding, he was dismayed to find that his mother had thrown out his baseball card collection with the trash. He went out and carried them all back into the house.

It came as no surprise, then, that after working twenty-five years for Sears, Roebuck and Company, Forbes decided to open a store in 1985 called Sports Collectibles in Peabody, MA, devoted to baseball cards. In 1987, he opened a second store, A J Sports, in Shawsheen Plaza in Andover, which carries a full range of sports clothing, shoes and accessories, as well as baseball cards.

After only eight months, A J Sports had outgrown its space. Fortunately, the store next door became available, but they needed an immediate decision.

"We had been seeing the Arlington Trust Company ads in the newspapers saying small to mid-size businesses are their specialty, so I called Sheila McCarthy, put my papers in a folder and went down to see her," Forbes said. "Two days later she called back and said 'we think we can help you. Within 48 hours, we had our loan!'"

"In this day and age where personal service is a thing of the past, it's so incredible to find someone who cares and gets things done," Forbes said.

Arlington Trust Company has been serving the needs of businesses for nearly 100 years. If you're a business in search of a bank, come to Arlington Trust.

Recycling More Than Money-saving

By Virginia Cole

Recycling is not just saving taxpayers money. For a long time I have concentrated my efforts towards that end. In the beginning, Andover Recycling felt that all the environmentalists were with us and in order to get more support, we had best focus on money. Money is interesting to everyone. Everyone pays taxes in one way or another. And, of course, now that everyone is talking recycling, money is still very important.

But perhaps we should all begin to look at the environment. I think we see that many more people are looking that way when we see the increase in plastic recycling in just a few weeks at our bin. Re-use or recycling is the way to save our environment. I've heard people say that trees, the main ingredient in paper, will replenish themselves and rather quickly, so what is all this fuss about paper recycling. And as for glass, it is made mostly of sand and we have lots of that.

It seems everyone figured out very quickly that aluminum needed to be reused. We don't have a lot of it in this country. And now plastics. They are so much more mysterious. What are they made of? What happens to them in landfills or incinerators? Do we have to import the products needed? Will we run out? Are we harming ourselves?

I suspect most of you know the answers to those questions. The big savings to the environment from re-use of paper and glass is a fuel savings. Glass particularly takes a great deal of energy to be created from sand, much less from used glass. Paper can be reused almost indefinitely, if treated right and so forests do not have to be cut down. Fuel savings and forest growth really do have a positive effect on the environment.

What do you know about reuse? Where are the markets for these reusable raw materials? Who is working to find new uses for old newsprint? Are bottles being made more and more from old glass? Why do we have to separate the colors? What can you do with old plastic?

Waste management techniques are changing and they must change more. We need curbside pickup for everything that can be reused. We must try harder to buy products that are packaged in recyclable paper or cardboard. We must seek out these new products, such as fence materials, insulation, etc., made from recycled plastic. Everything in this reuse business goes around in a circle and we, the producers of waste, must become the users of products made from waste. Only then does the circle work and the environment is protected.

Government has to get into this circle, too. We need their help in legislative packaging requirements. The United States has increased packaging more than any other country in the world. Now we are changing from paper and glass packaging to more plastic packaging. Can we keep up with this change in our efforts to reuse this plastic?

"My daughter Robin went through three years of nursery school with classes four days a week. She is ready for more than two and a half hours of school. She loves SHED and has benefitted from it. Other towns in the area have full-day kindergarten options. In Andover, SHED fills this need," she added.

SHED is staffed by degreed early childhood professionals and can accommodate 76 children during its two sessions each day or 38 at a time. Even though the Office for Children requires a 1 to 15 teacher/student ratio, SHED provides a low student to teacher ration (1:6) and offers a semi-structured day of planned activities and supervised free play.

Accessories

Accessories have been called the costume jewelry of the home, and just as the right pin or earrings can make or break an outfit, so can accessories add or detract from room decor. They range from the smallest paperweight to a full sized quilt, from lamps to a complete collection of porcelain. They are personal touches which lend character to a room, and in so doing, thoroughly reveal the taste of its occupant.

Guidelines to smart accessorizing

For major accessories, choose objects of quality—cheap jewelry looks the part, and so do shoddy accessories. Inexpensive "finds" can easily be interspersed with "valuables"; however, thus giving an overall impression of quality.

Keep color scheme in mind

Accessories are a wonderful way of introducing accent colors into a room. Don't forget the importance of flowers and plants as accessories. They are a marvelous way of testing colors without a permanent investment.

Distribution of accessories

For their greatest effect, accessories must be cleverly arranged. "Less is more" are the words here. However, if one wishes to display a great number of objects, do so without chaos by confining them. Etagers, antique cabinets, baker's racks, and built-in shelving make ideal display centers—many of which come illuminated for the prime purpose of display.

"Sentimental Me"

Framed items such as sheet music, love letters, citizenship papers, lace doilies, medals, badges, children's drawings, and of course photographs, say much about the owner, and provide an automatic conversation piece.

Until next month...Happy Decorating!

Harbingers Of Spring

The Children's Room at Memorial Hall Library has a dozen kites in bright primary colors and fanciful shapes dangling beneath its ceiling.

They were assembled and loaned for display by Art Iworsley, a physical education teacher at West Elementary School. He has been constructing kites for about two years and has flown every piece in his collection, including a 3-foot-long parallelogram-shaped box that boasts eight cross-stays, and he swears they are all sky-worthy. The kites will remain at the library until the breezes of April call them out to play.

The first session of the weekly Pajama Party for preschoolers will be held in the Children's Room Thursday, March 9, at 6:30 p.m. The 45-minute sessions for children ages 3½ to 5 years will feature bedtime stories, quiet songs, games and an occasional short film. The series will run for six Thursday nights; registration is not required.

March Exhibit

The library will display the work of Even Glendinning, a specialist in woodcarving, theorem and tray painting, during March. Glendinning attended the Amy Sacher School of Art in Boston and studied for a year under Paul Bornet and the Japanese artist Foujita in Paris. She studied woodcarving and theorem and tray painting in Cambridge with German artist John Larenz and has studied with Ethel Holmes of New Hampshire and drawing instructor Anna Hogan. Glendinnis is an Andover resident and a member of the Andovers Artists Guild.

Friday's Films

The Children's Room will present Crow Boy, Curious George Rides a Bike and The Fisherman and his Wife on Friday, March 3. Preschoolers and their adults should show up for the half-hour feature slightly before 10:30 a.m. at Memorial Hall on the top floor. "Films on Friday" requires no registration.

The Harvey Girls, a 1946 color film starring Judy Garland, will be shown at 7 p.m. Friday in Memorial Hall.

Complete listings of films for children and adults are available at the library.

Service Program Off To Good Start

By Chris McAnally

Andover High School's new community service program gives students a special sense of accomplishment.

The program, currently boasting 50 members, matches students with local charitable organizations that rely on volunteer services.

It was started by teacher Robert King, who has been a member of the Andover schools' science faculty for 16 years and has been involved in a variety of activities, including coaching the hockey and football teams. He also spent a great deal of time in drama, where he was the backbone of musical and other theatrical productions at Andover High. King has moved from these activities; his latest efforts have produced the community service organization.

The community service program has been working with eight local agencies that keep participants busy during the week. King says he is pleased with the turnout and support for the new organization.

"Mr. Tim Thomas (assistant principal) and I came up with the idea of a program of this nature here at the high school," King said. "We expected a half a dozen members would be sufficient for the jobs we anticipated. I am pleasantly surprised to see the high numbers involved. It shows these kids really care. It takes a lot for these kids to give up the time that they do, and they deserve any credit they receive."

Students work at different agencies, including the YMCA, Boys' Club, Bread and Roses and various elementary schools. They do everything from serving meals to the homeless to tutoring little kids to teaching disabled youngsters to ride a horse.

King said one problem is transportation; he said more drivers would be helpful.

McAnally is an AHS senior.

Computers Mean Business

By Kenneth Kwajewski

Editor's note: This is the ninth article in a series of biweekly articles written by the school system's computer education director, who will be describing the second phase of Andover's computer education plan.

The idea of the computer plan is to place technology in the hands of the teachers and students who can use it the most.

This year 12 IBM model 30s were added to the business laboratory to bring the total number of computers to 20. Last year, the business department used the computer systems to offer advanced word processing using the software program Word Perfect. With the addition of new systems the department has expanded its computer offerings to include microcomputer accounting. The business lab is now used every period of the day for typing, word processing and accounting.

Four business teachers were trained to use an automated accounting package from Southwestern Publishing last summer. The program was integrated into the business curriculum so that students could not only learn correct bookkeeping procedures using pencil and paper, but could also transfer these skills to the computer. Teachers Joanne Samara, Cammy Galvagna, Ken Pellerin and Fred Borrello spent a week learning how to use the program on the IBMs. All four teachers said the experience was worthwhile and properly prepared them to integrate the program this year.

Galvagna and Borrello are teaching two sections of Accounting I, a full-year course that teaches the principles of accounting procedures. Both teachers say it's essential that the students first master the basics of accounting before they are introduced to computer procedures.

Students spend the entire first quarter and half of the second semester learning how to correctly enter transactions into their paper ledgers. Students are taught how to establish a trail of accounts in accounts payable, accounts receivable and the general ledger. Much time is spent learning the foundations of accounting, which stresses the accuracy of entering accounts before the transition to computer technology takes place.

Once students are equipped with the knowledge of accounting procedures, they are introduced to an automated accounting program that allows them to accomplish the same goals using computer

Townsmen Starts Internship

Andover High Junior Named First Intern

Amy K. Morrissey, a junior at Andover High School, was recently chosen as The Andover TOWNSMAN's first student intern.

Morrissey, 16, is the daughter of Brian and Theresa Smith of 3 Sheffield Circle.

As a student intern, Morrissey will be writing school- and town-related articles and learning about the workings of a weekly newspaper. She is currently enrolled in Louise Tomlinson's high school journalism class, and her articles have appeared in The Lawrence Eagle-Tribune.

"I've always wanted to work for a newspaper, so I'm really excited. I know that I will benefit from this," Morrissey said. "Having someone from the high school interacting with The TOWNSMAN is a good idea; the paper will become more connected with student life."

This is the first year of The TOWNSMAN's internship program. The program was instituted to give Andover journalism students a taste of newspaper life.

Morrissey is an honor roll student and plans to attend college in the New England area, where she hopes to major in either English or Law. "Writing is something I enjoy doing, and journalism is definitely something I want to continue," she said.

Morrissey's interests include running and art. She is a member of the field hockey team, the Newspaper Club and is active in Amnesty International and the St. Augustine Church Genesis Youth Group.

Phillips Academy Names Next Board Of Trustees President

David Milton Underwood of Houston, Texas, has been named president-elect of the board of trustees of Phillips Academy. Underwood, a 1954 PA graduate, is a director of Underwood, Neuhaus & Co. Inc., an investment banking firm in Houston.

Phillips was established in 1778 and is the oldest incorporated boarding school in the United States with more than 1,200 boys and girls from 45 states and many parts of the world. PA merged with neighboring Abbot Academy (established in 1829), the country's oldest incorporated girls' boarding school, in 1973.

An Andover trustee since 1984, Underwood will take over as board president at the trustees' meeting in October. Retiring president Melville Chapin of Cambridge, a 1936 graduate, has served as trustee for more than 15 years and as board president since 1981.

While at PA, Underwood was elected to student congress three times, sang in the glee club, managed the golf team and served on the athletic advisory board during his senior year. He received a bachelor of arts degree in economics from Yale University in 1958 and served in the U.S. Army from 1958-60 and again on active duty from 1961-62. He was a member of the U.S. Army Reserve, attaining the rank of captain, and received the Army Commendation Medal.

Underwood has been a key figure for academy admissions and alumni activities in the Houston area since the '60s. His support for the academy's major fund-raising campaigns dates back to the late '50s with generous contributions to and leadership in the Andover program; funding the Underwood Room, a focal point in the life of the school; the academy's bicentennial campaign; the Addison Gallery of American Art's campaign and most recently, he served as co-chairman of the Oliver Wendell Holmes Library Development Committee. He currently serves on the trustee finance committee and as chairman of the trustee building committee.

The newly-named board president has served the securities industry by being a governor of the National Association of Securities Dealers, a long-time member of the economic education committee of the Securities Industry Association and as a trustee of the association's Foundation for Economic Education.

Underwood serves as a trustee of the Fondren Foundation, director of the Methodist Hospital of Houston and director and vice chairman of the board of Texas Medical Center. He is a board member of the Kinkaid School and chairman of the board of trustees of the Kinkaid Endowment Board.

Underwood previously served as chairman of the board of trustees of Kinkaid, becoming the first, and so far, only second-generation chairman. His father, Milton R. Underwood, served as chairman in the 1940s.

Eric Guzowski, a senior at Andover High School, seems a bit hesitant about being addressed as "Eric, my love" by a Swinging Gates member. The Swinging Gates, an acapella singing group from Colgate University, performed at the high school on Feb. 17 during a cross-country tour.

Music Teachers Host Recitals

The Merrimack Valley Music Teachers' Association hosted two candlelight recitals at the Parker Gallery in Lowell last month. Students of piano, violin and cello filled the programs with music. Each recital was followed by a Valentine "sweets" reception.

MVMTA, founded in 1978, is a music organization dedicated to serving the Merrimack Valley. A member of the National Music Teachers' Association, it has grown from five members to more than 30. Kate Benson, June Persing and Linda Shen, all of Andover, presented students in the recitals.

Andover students who participated are Sefany Andreadis, Amanda Firicano, Sara Hemeon, Mike Mano, Adia Nunnally, Donna Schroeder, Melissa Schroeder, Andrew Shen, Lenore Stubenhaus, Irene Wang, Benjamin Wessler and Matthew Wessler.

MVMTA membership is open to all music teachers. For further information, call president Joy Schuetze of Haverhill.

The Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) is a self-supporting enrichment program for those attending Kindergarten at the Shawsheen Early Childhood Center. After five years of offering a highly acclaimed program, it has become necessary, due to space limitations, for SHED to leave the two classrooms it occupies at the end of this school year.

A group of parents will meet with the School Committee on Tuesday, March 7, at West Middle School to present a proposal to place a relocatable unit at the Shawsheen School site. Placement of a structure on school property can only be pursued with approval of the School Committee.

We encourage everyone interested in maintaining this high quality educational program to attend the meeting on March 7 to support this effort. The meeting is at 7:30 p.m.

Andover High Turns Into 'Chateau Rose'

By Sondra Barch

The Andover High School dining hall will turn into a "chateau" Saturday night.

The Community A.S.K. Team and the Department of Community Services are hosting Le Chateau Rose, an evening of gaming and dancing, from 7:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Le Chateau Rose will be open to all Andover High students.

Tickets are on sale at the high school during lunch periods and from Verna Friesse in the library annex. Tickets will not be sold at the door. The price includes a non-alcoholic cocktail, unlimited Pepsi and gambling chips. Additional drinks and snacks may be purchased during the evening. The first 100 ticket buyers will receive a complimentary rose.

Music will be provided by a WCGY disc jockey. Door prizes will be awarded to the five highest winners for the evening, best dressed and winners of the dance contest. Pink and black is the evening's color theme.

The gaming tables will include 16 black jack tables, roulette, a wheel of fortune, craps and a money wheel.

Computers

technology. The software program is good for the teachers too: it allows them to use any textbook to create accounting problems. In fact, each teacher uses a different textbook to generate assignments.

The largest advantage of computerized accounting is the time it saves both teacher and student. Students quickly realize they can accomplish much more on the computer than they could using pencil and paper. A typical transaction that could involve six separate sheets of paper and 10 minutes of time can be done on the computer in two minutes. Mistakes can be easily detected and corrected on a computer without the constant use of a pencil and eraser. An audit trail can also be established using the computer, and the same principles that were emphasized with the pencil are used with the computer.

There is also an obvious time-saving benefit for the instructors. Since students are able to complete assignments quicker, it leaves more time for individualized assistance and time to create more in-depth problems. Borrello said he can now use many other resources to create assignments that could not be accomplished with pencil and paper.

The computer allows students to enter and evaluate data more efficiently.

Warren Rehe of Andover helps the Greater Merrimack Valley Chorale come up with its classical sound.

Chorale Readies For Performance Of 'Requiem'

Chorale members get ready to perform Mozart's Requiem, which will take center stage at Methuen Music Hall on Saturday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

Townsmen photos by Matthew Sapienza

David Tierney conducts the Greater Merrimack Valley Chorale through a rehearsal of Mozart's Requiem.

Costume Designer Goes Back To '50s

She has made a dragon dance, brought a wooden boy to life and turned a "coward" into a lion. Now, with scissors as her wand and the help of a team of parent elves, Pat Henderson is dropping 40 local teenagers into a 30-year time warp for the Merrimack Junior Theatre.

For the past three years, Henderson has served as costume designer/coordinator for Andover's most elaborate youth community theater productions, including Andover Community Theatre's Joseph and the Technicolor Dreamcoat and Pinocchio, and most recently, MJT's Hey, George! She is now costuming the cast of Bye, Bye, Birdie to be staged March 17, 18 and 19 at the Doherty Middle School Auditorium.

A housewife who works part time as a substitute school nurse, Henderson learned to sew as a Girl Scout. She perfected her techniques during her late '60s hitch as a Navy flight nurse in Sicily. "I couldn't find Italian clothes that fit me," she explains, "but they had wonderful fabrics there."

Henderson volunteered for her first full-scale production, ATC's Alice in Wonderland, because her daughter, Kathy, had been selected for the cast. An avid creator of Halloween and school skit costumes for her four children, she recalls, "They told me I'd get a good budget. I thought this would be great—to do all this with somebody else's money."

Henderson recruited a crew of cast members' parents and divided them into specialties: cutters, gluers and sewers. Then the woman who "hated history as a kid" taught herself how to research a play.

Her methods and sources vary, of course, with the production. For Bye, Bye, Birdie, which features an Elvis-type singer who appears on the Ed Sullivan Show, she first established a researchable era, 1955 to 1962, to coincide with the "King's" historic 1956 television debut. Then she consulted her first source, her 1960 high school yearbook. She noted that she and her girlfriends had worn skirts that were either full or form-fitting; their waists nipped with wide, tight "cinch belts." Sweaters were tighter than today's. "Girls were very feminine," she says. "They enhanced their figures with clothing."

Henderson dug through a pile of books in the library and unearthed other odd bits of information about pedal pushers, circle pins, multiple crinolines and felt skirts. "Shocking" colors, chartreuse, hot pink and turquoise, were in. Surprisingly, what wasn't in was the well-remembered felt-appliqued poodle skirt. "That was a different era," she says.

Henderson discovered that Elvis had a fan club that dressed in a sort of uniform: "They wore Elvis buttons, full skirts, white blouses, cinch belts and records on their skirts," she says. She lifted the concept for Birdie, giving "Conrad Birdie Fan Club" members in New York yellow skirts with applique records and "Sweet Apple, Ohio" members record skirts in hot pink and turquoise.

Guitarist To Give Concert At PA

Guitarist John Major will perform in the Addison Gallery on the Phillips Academy campus Sunday, March 5, at 3 p.m.

Major is a member of the PA faculty. A composer and improviser, he has played in concert on the east and west coasts and in master class with Julian Bream, Michael Lorimer and Abel Carlevaro. His composition "Sea Changes" was published by Lorimer in his series of New American Guitar Composers and was described by Guitar Review as "bearing the stamp of an almost limitless imagination."

Joaquin Rodrigo's "Invocation and Dance" and his guitar concerto, "Aranjuez," will be included in the first half of the program which consists of guitar music by Spanish and Latin American composers. The second half of the program, consisting entirely of music by Major and jazz composers, will include "Heatland" by Keith Jarrett and "Goodbye Pork Pie Hat" by Charles Mingus.

The Bell X-1 was the first plane to officially exceed the speed of sound. It was flown on October 14, 1947, by Major Charles E. Yeager. The plane was nicknamed "Glamorous Glenis."

Academy Groups To Perform

The Phillips Academy Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra will perform The Passion According to St. John by Johann Sebastian Bach Friday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the First and Second Church in Boston and Friday, March 10, at 8 p.m. at the First Religious Society in Newburyport.

Featured performers are Allen Combs as the Evangelist; San-to Cataudella as Jesus; James Rogers as Pilate; Gregory Jackson, tenor, and Terry Morgan, mezzo soprano. The Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra are under the direction of William Thomas, chairman of the PA music department.

These passions are made up of three elements. The first is the Gospel text itself. The only part of the Gospel text not sung in recitative are those lines given to groups of people, such as the scribes and Pharisees, soldiers or the crowd. These are set for four-part choir, usually in the severe imitative style traditional for these texts in Passion music, but for which Bach also gives the impression of a frenzied rabble, Thomas said.

The second element is the poetry added to comment on the Gospel. Bach used and edited a popular Passion text by Berthold Brookes. This poetry interrupts the Gospel narrative at appropriate points, set as an aria, often introduced by an accompanied recitative or arioso. Two of the greatest of these commentaries, placed at the beginning and end of the "St John Passion," are for choruses.

The third element is the addition of Lutheran Church chorales at important points of the story, representing the response of the community of faithful to the Passion events.

But, Thomas added, "Bach succeeds in interpreting the Passion story as a drama which can move all without giving up in the slightest that religious depth of the music which is such an important and personal element of his style."

Antonio Vivaldi's Concerto in C Major for two trumpets and strings, R. 537, the "Allegro" movement, with Vincent Monaco and David Ammer on trumpets is also featured on the program.

The Academy Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra will tour Italy with this program for 18 days, appearing in Rome, Amelia, Vincenza, Castelfranco, Siena and Florence. Other annual tours have included New York, Pennsylvania, California, Maine, Florida, Washington, D.C., Spain, Italy, Scotland, Belgium and Puerto Rico.

These concerts are free and the public is invited.

Guitarist

Classical guitarist David Grimes will give the second performance of the North East Cultural Arts Center's cultural series. Grimes will perform tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of First Baptist Church, 217 Main St., Haverhill. He will play works by Bach, Villa-Lobos, Sor and Castelnuovo-Tedesco.

Costumes

Henderson buys fabrics from local mills and outlets. "My goal is not to pay more than $2 a yard," she says. She cuts the pieces herself ("so I don't waste fabric"), often using her own patternless designs, then turns them over to her crew for assembly.

Henderson also discovered she could borrow genuine period clothing from some cast parents. "You'd be surprised what people save," she says. "I got prom dresses, two men's suits, crinolines." The Girl Scout Spar and Spindle Council headquarters in North Andover lent Henderson three late-'50s uniforms from their museum; ex-scout mothers donated their own badge sashes to be worn with them.

Assembling the costumes for Birdie was a relatively easy task; convincing the girls to wear them was less so. "Clothing used to fit well then; now, it's baggy," says Henderson. "It feels too constricting." Even 14-year-old Kathy bridled at the short-skirted cheerleader dress, copied by her mother from her yearbook, that she had to wear.

And, too, there was the now-alien concept of "Elvis worship." Even after Henderson had dressed the show's would-be teen idol (Chris Sintros) in his black sequined rocker outfit (a Marshall's bargain, trimmed in glue and glitter), she reports that director Josie Walker "couldn't get the kids to react to Conrad Birdie's swivelling his hips."

Walker had to discuss the significance of it all, which amuses Henderson, who remembers bringing home a note from her Catholic school advising parents not to allow their children to watch Elvis on the Sullivan show.

In all, though, Henderson has found her part of the Birdie production has run smoothly. The play has posed none of the logistical challenges of Hey, George!, whose enormous dragon has to hide five children, dance and hold up its huge head with help from a single young operator

THE SOCIAL SIDE

Andona Society Plans Gala

The Andona Society will get a head-start on spring with its spring fashion show March 21, the day after the vernal equinox.

The Andona Society, a non-profit civic organization for Andover women, is adding a new twist to its annual fashion show, said member Joan H. Duff of Greybirch Road. Keeping the theme "On Broadway," models will present spring and summer fashions—sportswear and daytime wear, business and evening attire, Duff said.

The clothing will come from Ruth's, a women's specialty shop located in Medford Square. Store owner Rick Segel will serve as master of ceremonies. Over 50 outfits will be modeled.

By noon on the Saturday before the presidential inauguration, Ruth's had already sold and altered 27 dresses for the Washington celebration, Duff said.

The evening's program, which starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Rolling Green Hotel on Lowell Street, will consist of a social hour, followed by dinner. The fashion show will be divided into four parts: sportswear, suits, "after 5" and "glitter," featuring furs. Clothes may be purchased that evening, and coupons will be available, Duff said. Door prizes, including a get-away weekend and a dinner gift certificate, will close the evening.

Show proceeds will benefit the town of Andover. With a focus on supporting youth activities, the Andona Society provides a total of $5,000 in scholarship support to students graduating from Andover High School and the Greater Lawrence Regional Technical Vocational High School. "Camperships" are provided to deserving and needy town youth, last year in the amount of $5,000, Duff said.

The society also makes contributions to town youth athletic associations and Memorial Hall Library. So far this year, contributions have been made to Andover High's girls' volleyball, boys' tennis and girls' swim team; the Andover Hockey Association; the Andover/North Andover Youth Basketball League; the Samaritans; and the library. Last year over $18,000 was contributed to support town services, Duff said.

Fashion show tickets include a full-course dinner entree of chicken dijonaise. For additional information, contact Barbara Goyette of South Main Street.

Tickets are also available at Merle Norman, 93 Main St. Tickets will not be sold at the door and may not be purchased after March 10.

A pain in the neck can make you a "pain in the neck"

If you're feeling irritable and argumentative, if you snap at someone and later wonder why, it could be caused by that slight pain you feel in your neck — it's the sign of a pinched nerve. Feelings of irritability, depression and being tired, even after a good night sleep, can also be traced to a pinched nerve. This condition is treated daily by chiropractic. Left untreated, you may suffer from headaches, shoulder pains, arm pains, and an overall lack of energy. If you are experiencing any of these symptoms, I urge you to have a chiropractic examination.

To encourage you to do this (and improve your disposition) please take advantage of this offer:

FREE EXAMINATION

This (a $35.00 value) will include: a FREE orthopedic test, a FREE neurological test, and of course, a FREE private consultation with a doctor to discuss the results. Because chiropractic is recognized by most insurance companies, your treatment may be at little or no cost to you in accordance with your insurance policy's provisions. There is absolutely no obligation on your part.

RELIGIOUS COMMUNITY

Local Clergy Participate In Woman's Consecration

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Hynes Veterans Center in Boston is usually one big cold, steel space, but on Feb. 11, it was transformed into a colorful, warm meeting house, where over 8,500 people gathered to witness the pageantry of the consecration of the world's first woman Episcopal bishop.

Among those at the celebration, were representatives from all over the world, as well as people from our own backyard. The consecration of the Rev. Barbara C. Harris involved months of planning and preparation, of which some members of Christ Church in Andover played an integral part.

Catherine Rosen, a Christ Church parishioner, was a lay member of the nominating committee for Harris' election and followed through with preparations for the service.

Sarah Warren, Janice Yancy and Christ Church Rector James Diamond helped to serve communion. Christ Church Curate Margaret Bullitt-Jonas served as deacon for communion and served the new bishop during communion. Jeff Gill was Harris' chaplain, carrying the bishop's crosier, or staff, in procession.

Ila Cox, another parishioner, helped with the arranging of hundreds of flowers to brighten the hall. Alix Rosen served as an acolyte, and Gayton Yancy was an usher.

Janice Yancy, who is the office manager and secretary at Phillip Academy's Cochran Chapel and a member of Christ Church, said the hall was charged with energy and there was a feeling of a worldwide family gathering. One of the international representatives was a choir from China, which sang some traditional Episcopal hymns in Chinese.

"It was like a United Nations of sorts," Yancy said. "You really felt like a child of the world."

Bullitt-Jonas has a different but equally memorable recollection of Harris' consecration. She arrived at Hynes Saturday morning at 8 a.m. with all the other deacons and was overwhelmed by the auditorium's transformation. In the center of the hall was a large purple and red hanging canopy over a platform decorated with scores of purple and red flowers, she said.

"When the gospel music started the place came a live," Bullitt-Jonas said.

She said about 46 parishioners and friends traveled to the auditorium from Christ Church's Glebe House to witness the historic event.

Abbot Plan Gets Approval

By Frank Messina

The Planning Board, with a tinge of reluctance, gave its blessing to the Abbot Academy renovation plans Tuesday night.

With board member Susan Stott abstaining, the board unanimously approved a site plan for restoration of the old girls' school.

Phillips Academy will face its final obstacle tonight when school officials ask the Zoning Board of Appeals for a special permit to convert part of Abbot Academy into a 52-unit apartment building.

Site plan controversy has centered on a proposed 27-space parking lot on Abbot Street that abutters have condemned as an unsightly, possibly hazardous nuisance.

But after inspecting several alternatives, board members agreed with PA officials.

"I'm a little uncomfortable with the location, but after walking the site I can't come up with a better one," said Chairman Russ Moran.

Talking to several Abbot neighbors in the audience, board member Carl Beyers said, "I hear (your concerns) loud and clear." But after visiting the campus, "I think everyone in this room believes (Abbot Street) is the best alternative."

Ron Hill, 15 Abbot St., was the only neighbor to speak before the board's decision. He briefly commented that many abutters are against the parking lot and submitted a petition with several signatures opposing the parking lot location.

In approving the site plan, planners also attached several conditions, including:

- A ban on parking on certain sections of Abbot and School streets near the three Abbot buildings.

- Submission of a layout showing directional and informational signs showing traffic flow and building locations.

- Submission of detailed utility plans.

- Further study on the feasibility of a new water main connection to Abbot Street.

- Willingness on the part of PA to provide low-income housing on the site.

- Installing landscape screening around the Abbot Street parking lot and the Draper Hall apartments.

Committee Members Discuss School Master Plan Revisions

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Andover school system's master plan is rounding the bend into the final stretch of its first year. School Committee members, at their Tuesday night meeting, discussed proposed revisions for the master plan in upcoming years.

The proposed revisions were prepared for the committee by secretary Margo Tilghman and committee member Richard Neal and covered four major areas:

- A review and report on the status of 1988-'89 priorities

- Priority setting for the 1989-'90 school year
- Plans to extend the five-year plan an extra year
- Update population projections and the computer plan status

The committee focused on priorities for next school year, specifically grade reorganization and curriculum and instruction initiatives.

Now that ninth-graders have been moved to the high school, the major long-term emphasis will be on the middle schools, said Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Kenneth Seifert.

Lois Haslam, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction, told the School Committee the initial phase of the staff development plan has been completed. The next phase, she said, will be a form sent out to faculty to evaluate what's been done this year and to make recommendations for the upcoming year.

Student competency tests, which were put on hold this year, will be picked up next year. The tests measure a student's skill level, which must conform for each grade systemwide.

Part of the committee's suggestions put special emphasis on the high school curriculum, including physical education and student competencies initiatives.

Tilghman told the committee she hopes final revisions for the master plan's second year will be completed in the next few weeks, when a corrected copy of the complete edition will be available.

Dziadul Defends Role In Town Hall/P.O. Conflict

By Frank Messina

Standing before the Board of Selectmen, including two members he will be facing in this month's election, candidate John Dziadul Monday night defended his role in a well-publicized conflict with town hall officials over a proposed Old Town Hall post office.

Last week, Dziadul made headlines when he looked into the status of a plan to include a post office outlet in the Old Town Hall renovation plans.

When Dziadul phoned town officials and claimed the U.S. Postal Service was only going to put stamp machines in Old Town Hall, Town Manager Kenneth Mahony checked with Andover Postmaster Tony Mendoza. The postmaster said he never talked with the selectman candidate, and Mahony blasted Dziadul for jeopardizing negotiations with the postal service.

Andres Salazar

Salazar Enters Race For School Committee

Andres Salazar has filed his candidacy for one of the two Andover School Committee seats being vacated this year. He ran an 11th-hour, but unsuccessful, write-in campaign in the School Committee race last year. His 10-day campaign netted 1,186 votes out of 3,417 cast in that election.

Salazar has been involved in Andover school and community activities since moving to Andover five years ago. He was active in the Doherty Junior High Parent Advisory Council and co-chaired the secondary parents group in 1987-'88. He has coached seven seasons of Andover Soccer Association teams and local traveling teams in basketball and softball.

Salazar stresses campaign themes of parental involvement, teacher recognition and School Committee leadership. He believes parental involvement brings the parent back into the natural educational partnership between pupil, teacher and parent. He would like to see more parents take an active role in the educational community. Salazar says the teacher is the most important factor in influencing the quality of education.

"Leadership on the School Committee requires establishment of priorities," he said, "as well as current knowledge of operations, clear policy setting and long-range planning." Salazar says his 22 years of business background and management experience will be an asset to resolving town and school issues.

Salazar lives at 58 Salem St. with his wife, Jean, and three daughters, Julie, 18, an Andover High School senior; Melissa, 16, an Andover High School junior; and Justine, 10, a Bancroft Elementary School fourth-grader. He graduated with a doctorate in electrical engineering from Michigan State University in 1967. He worked at Bell Telephone Laboratories in New Jersey for 16 years and for Ininet in North Andover for five years.

Salazar was a telecommunications consultant for the United Nations from 1975 to '76. He is currently an executive with Sutek Industries, an engineering services company he recently founded.

Townsmen Price Goes Up

The cost of The TOWNSMAN has been increased beginning with this week's edition.

Continued increased costs of production of the weekly newspaper compelled the increase from 35 cents to 50 cents. It is the first increase in over five years.

Annual subscription rates have been increased to $20 per year in Andover.

OPINION

Further Absurdity

Andover town meeting will be asked this year to consider imposing what is termed an 'impact fee' on developers.

The fee, according to Town Manager Kenneth Mahony, would be a cost charged developers to offset the effect such new construction would have on town services, such as schools, utilities and public safety.

The only problem with the imposition of such a fee is that the developers probably would have little or no objection since they will simply be passing that cost on to whoever purchases the property.

What it does is impose further costs on Andover residents and taxpayers for services that should be delivered within the confines of the budget approved at town meeting.

It's needless to mention the various fees charged for public use of municipal facilities or services already or the continually increasing cost of maintaining the water and sewer departments based on rates assessed to the users.

The town manager also informed the selectmen Monday night during discussion of the proposal that he felt such a fee would ensure that developers 'do all the things they say they will do.'

The town already has that assurance through the imposition of bonds on developers to be sure that utility lines are installed properly and streets laid out to proper town regulations.

Also, building permits are issued and inspections made on property while in various stages of construction.

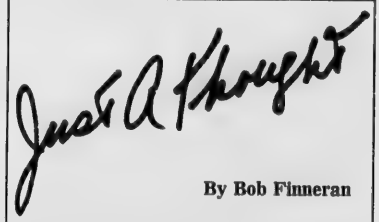

As for the argument, also put forth Monday night, that homes would be worth more if such a fee schedule were implemented, it might be pointed out that Andover doesn't need more expensive homes. What it really needs is residential units where those people who have grown up here can maintain an Andover address with a reasonable cost.

The proposal would seem to be just another way in which to raise money for town coffers, which may be all right under some circumstances, but it would seem Andover residents are already overburdened with fees, fines and user costs, not to mention the real estate tax burden itself.

For those of us in the private sector, there is no possibility of acquiring additional funds through any other means than working for them and exercising efficiency.

The time is long overdue when government, be it town, state or federal, exercise similar procedures.

To impose an impact fee represents further absurdity to efficient municipal economics.

By Bob Finneran

It was rather cold and around midnight when a knock came on the back door the other night. Responding, found a gent in a blue jacket with some odd contraption suspended from his shoulder and sporting a Bay State Gas Co. logo. "Got a gas leak somewhere in the neighborhood. Like to get in and check around."

Everything checked out OK at the old homestead, but these dutiful fellows were able to come up with a porous pipe in the street a little distance away that required drilling.

They worked diligently to find where the gas was coming from, spending considerable time with the drill, which I'm sure was quite appealing to my wife, who was scheduled for a dental appointment the next day.

With the temperature well below the freezing mark, went out and asked the trio of workers if they'd like some coffee.

After one replied in the affirmative, another said, "You don't want to get the wife out of bed at this hour." To which the other said, "Who can sleep with us making all this noise?"

Thus, the pot went on; the workers expressed appreciation; and after a few hours the drills were silenced and the emergency crews were on their way.

The neighborhood seemed calm and back to normal until 2 a.m. on Tuesday when the dog started barking. This was an irritated barking, not just a curious woof.

Then came some rustling outside the bedroom window, so I arose and peeked out to find a gent in an orange jacket poking something into the foundation area of the house.

After hollering as politely as possible under the circumstances, he said, "Gas company; got a leak somewhere."

Wonderful.

First, don't know whether the house is being invaded, now have to be concerned we might be going into orbit.

After affirming that everything seemed safe for the night and assuring that a crew would be in the area first thing in the morning, returned to slumberland.

Bright and early Tuesday morning there were trucks, backhoes, drills, crewmen and police attacking the first-heaved roadway to resolve the issue once and for all.

After spending the better part of the entire day there and throwing some patch on the holes in the street, which should disappear in no time, everything seems back to normal.

And, while being grateful for the promptness of utility people in attending to the problem, it might be nice if a little advance notice were given, either by telephone or a knock on the door, before attacking the foundation at 2 in the morning.

Except for that, the guys were quite efficient, and we should be appreciative for their efforts. As one of them commented, these things never happen on a mild night.

Tribute To Dr. Emmons

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Every once in awhile a person comes along whose abilities and quiet competence leave a deep imprint on others. These individuals are one of a kind; absolute originals.

Dr. William V. Emmons, late of Andover, was at the top of my list in these and many other ways. He practiced optometry for nearly half a century, leading the profession in constant concern for the visual welfare of patients and cooperation with other vision-care groups. He was the first optometrist to serve in the medical advisory board of the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare and the first optometrist ever to be elected to the Massachusetts affiliate of the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

This organization presented him with its "Man of Vision" award in 1982, the year he retired, and the New England Council of Optometrists honored him with its distinguished service award in 1983.

A very decent human being in all ways, this man. Our lives are richer, for having touched his.

Save SHED

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

As parents and members of this community, my husband and I feel compelled to write this letter concerning the present SHED dilemma.

Having had one child already go through the SHED program, we are familiar with its format, teachers and philosophy. We feel so strongly in favor of this program, which provides a safe, enriching, nurturing, learning experience for our children, a wonderful alternative to day care in an age when quality day care is so hard to find.

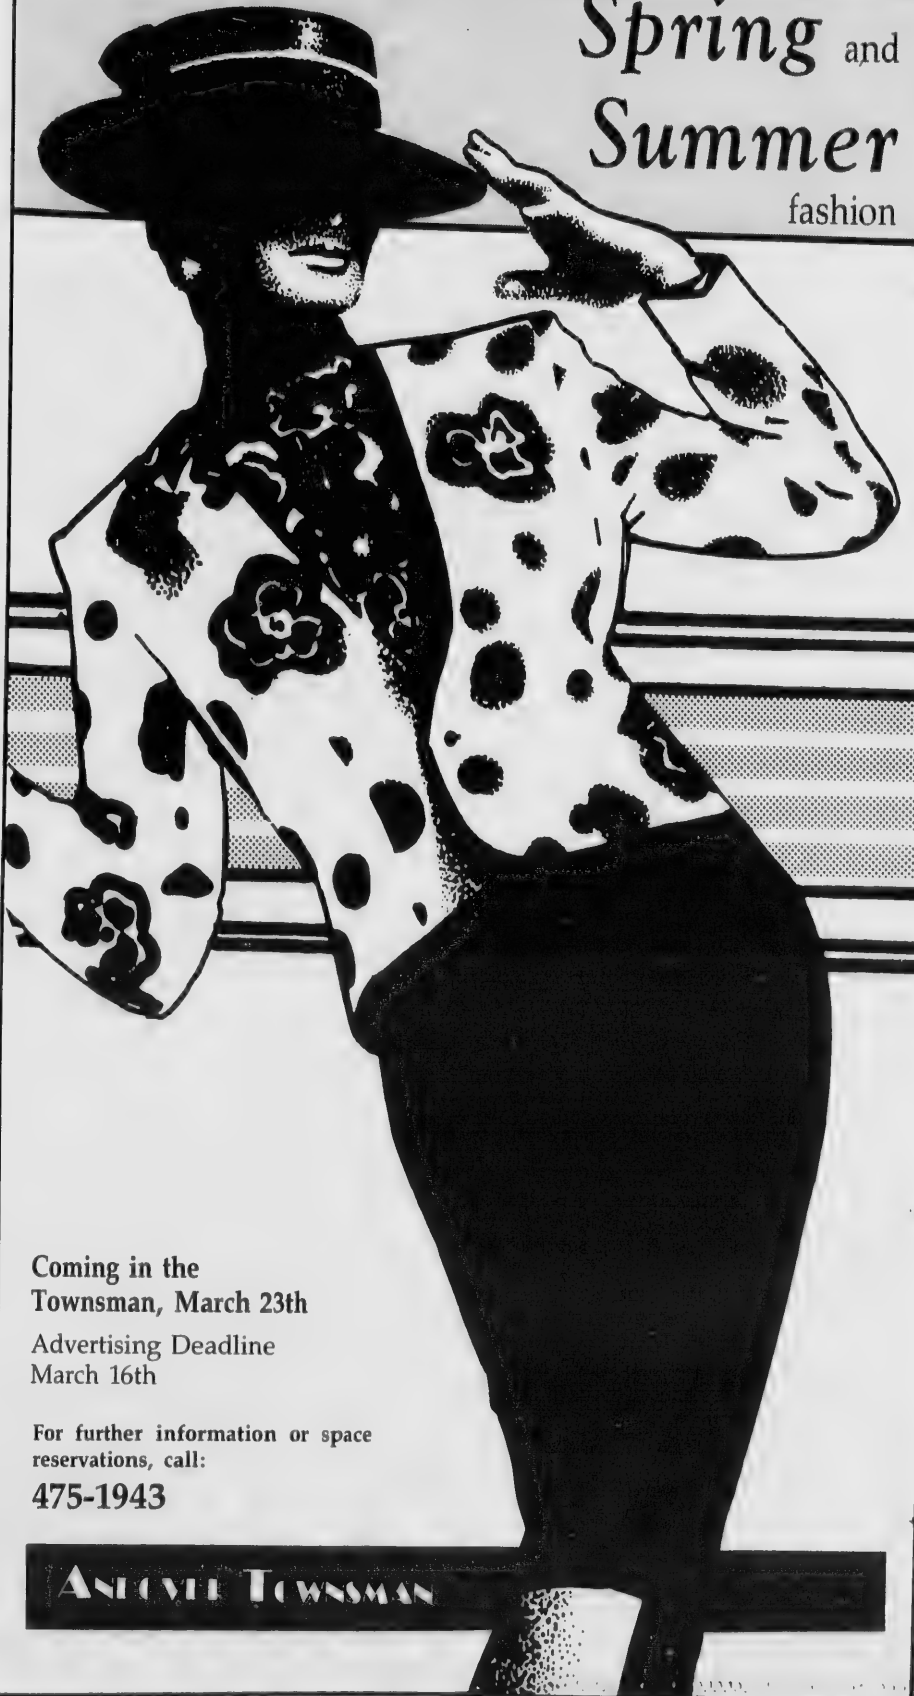

As a non-working mother, I look to SHED to extend the all-important socialization process begun in kindergarten and I can only just imagine the burden that would be placed upon the shoulders of our community's working mothers should SHED be terminated.

Our children are our greatest natural resource and it is with this in mind that we urge you to do everything possible to ensure the continuation of SHED, something Andover can be very proud to call its own.

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Opposes Use Of Shawsheen

To The Editor Of the TOWNSMAN:

Over the last few weeks recent newspaper articles and letters have discussed disturbing proposals to erect temporary SHED classrooms on the grounds of the Shawsheen School. These proposals, which will be made formally to the School Committee on March 7, are being put forth by supporters of the Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) Program, a non-profit corporation currently utilizing space at Shawsheen School and providing extended-day child care to some kindergarteners enrolled at the Shawsheen Early Childhood Center. SHED also plans to request substantial town funds for this purpose in a warrant article at April Town Meeting.

As abutters and residents of this historic neighborhood for the last 18 years, we have seen Shawsheen School undergo a number of changes since our own children attended elementary school there. Built in 1924 this school, the smallest property in the Andover school system, was designed by the Boston architectural firm of Ripley and LeBoutillier. This same firm designed many of the beautiful Georgian buildings in Shawsheen. Those of us who have lived in this neighborhood for many years are acutely aware of its unique nature and work hard to maintain its special character. Recently the town has even installed period lamp posts here.

We have seen examples presented by representatives of the "Save our SHED" committee of the type of 30'x70' "temporary classrooms" proposed. They are commercial-appearing, prefabricated buildings which are not aesthetically pleasing. The appearance of such structures would not be in keeping with either the Shawsheen School itself or its neighborhood. The cost of approximately $200,000 makes it inevitable that this proposed building would be at the Shawsheen School for many years to come, not temporarily.

As working parents who also have had to juggle two busy schedules along with raising our children, we understand the worthwhile service SHED provides to its parents. But the SHED proposal seems to be a short-term solution and one of convenience to its families whose children may only have a one-two year involvement there. SHED's proposal is not sensitive to the long-term consequences for the abutters, many of whom have lived in this historic neighborhood for over 25 years. Town demographics have not always dictated a single-campus site for kindergarten and readiness programs. With changing demographics, it is possible that SHED in future years may locate elsewhere or in multiple locations leaving its "temporary" legacy to the neighborhood to live with.

We and many of our Shawsheen neighbors urge the School Committee to disallow this type of allegedly temporary classroom construction at Shawsheen School and to encourage SHED to continue looking for alternative solutions for its space problems.

SPORTING LIFE

IT'S UPHILL FOR SKI TEAM

Notre Dame had the four horsemen, but the alpine women's race team at Andover High School have Amy Heislein and Amy Heseltine, who wreaked havoc against other teams in the league by continually posting the two fastest times on the hill in every single meet throughout the season.

Both girls have been racing since they were old enough to walk and have been fixtures in Bradford for the last 10 winters. Both started racing as 5-year-olds in the Buddy Werner race program sponsored by the Andover Ski Club. The girls follow in the tracks of older siblings who had outstanding careers as local racers and varsity racers at Andover High.

Both skiers are pursuing race careers as up-country racers in the Tri-State Federation and the New Hampshire Alpine Race Federation, which come under the U.S. Ski Association umbrella and allow racers to progress up the ladder in national and international competition.

As the top leading racers, Heislein and Heseltine competed in the North Shore League Interscholastic meet Feb. 16 and captured the first two spots with the fastest time against the league's all stars.

The men's and women's team captured second place in the Interscholastics with Jerry Guerard in sixth place, Lance Gomes eighth and Bob Lowrey 10th. These three boys, along with Terry Retelle and Jon Bicknell, will represent Andover High in the state tournament, along with Joan Asgierrson, who posted a 10th in the women's interscholastic, and Jennifer Colangila, who was seeded third for the season.

Heislein and Heseltine are three-sport athletes at the high school. Heislein plays varsity field hockey and runs spring track, while Heseltine played with Andover High's championship soccer team and will also run track in the spring.

The future looks bright for the alpine race squads with virtually all the women returning except Kathleen Radulski and Asgierrson, who are seniors. Returning starters include Heseltine, Heislein, Eva Derba, Jenn Brodie, Jenn Recesso, Jennifer Colangili, Jennifer Letch, Heather Read, Lori Philbin, Michelle Camarata and Andrea Rizzo.

The men's team will lose Guerard, Lowrey, Lance Gomes and Peter Radulski, but have Retelle, Chad Gomes, Adam Galaburdi, Adam Ruma, Kris Kilmer and Chris Ader.

Amy Heislein and Amy Heseltine pose with the trophies they won during the North Shore League Interscholastic meet last month.

Warriors Bow In Tourney

By Rick Harrison

An old nemesis came back to haunt the Andover High boys' basketball team as Cambridge Rindge & Latin, the school that unleashed Patrick Ewing on the Big East (Georgetown) and the Big Apple (New York Knicks), brought an abrupt halt to the Golden Warriors' 1988-89 season this past Tuesday night.

Utilizing strong first and third quarter bursts, CR&L overcame a fine individual effort by Andover's Todd Musteraid to register a 76-56 victory in the opening round of the annual single-elimination MIAA Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Sectional Tournament.

It was an especially tough draw for the young and tourney-unwise Golden Warriors, forced to play on enemy hardwood before a largely hostile crowd in an event that allows no bad nights.

Cambridge outpointed Andover 23-13 in the first period, 18-6 in the third stanza, 41-19 combined in those two quarters to key the victory.

AHS thus completed a 12-7 season, including 10-5 in the MVC for fourth place (two games out of first) in the Large School Division.

An Andover win over Cambridge would have constituted a major upset, but instead invaluable experience was gained by the team that graduates only two seniors of consequence (Musteraid and John Russell.).

Third-seeded CR&L beat Andover off the boards and had exceptional quickness.

The 14th seeded Golden Warriors had 23 points from senior center Musteraid in his final AHS varsity game, while junior Stefan Tomlinson added 10 points.

Junior forward John Thompson came next in line with six points, sophomore Brett Hammond pocketed five, John Russell four, sophomore Matt Perry four free throws, Chris Eggert two points and Paul Lembo two.

James Brown led four Cambridge R&L players into double figures with 18 points.

Questioning ASK

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The ASK team's high school task force is planning a March 4 casino night for grades nine through 12. While I do not favor the prohibition of gambling activities, this project reveals an important irony.

The ASK program is trying to reduce and prevent drug abuse and addictive behaviors. Simultaneously, it is going to use gambling as one of its activities. New research reveals that about 4.2 percent of the general population engages in gambling behaviors compulsively. There are even more problem gamblers. Along with alcohol, drug abuse and some excessive eating disorders, compulsive gambling is one of the classic patterns of addictive behavior. Finally, research shows that about 50 percent of gamblers in treatment have significant drug abuse problems. Similarly, a large percentage of drug abusers gamble to excess.

While a casino night may be lots of fun for the majority, it is inappropriate, insensitive and thoughtless for the ASK team to serve as its sponsor. Perhaps most important, this event reveals that the ASK team needs better training, supervision and consultation about addictive behaviors. It would not be the first time that prevention efforts inadvertently increased the problems it intended to avoid.

Open Letter

As a concerned student I would like the town to recognize a particular school bus driver named Wendy Bebo on bus 106. She is the best bus driver South Elementary School has ever had. She is always concerned about us (the students) especially in this icy winter season. She is very careful about the roads and she always gets us to school on time. She treats us as if we were her own children. She is always making sure that we are safe on the bus and at the bus stop getting on and off. I think that all bus drivers should be like Wendy.

Energy Survey

Customers of Bay State Gas can save energy and money by signing up for the CARES (Conservation and Reliable, Efficient Service) program.

For a small fee a state certified energy auditor will conduct an energy audit of a customer's home. The auditors examine insulation, heating system efficiency, distribution systems losses and infiltration losses. Then a computer printout of potential savings and payback is given to and reviewed with the customer.

Customers can enroll in a mail-order program which gives them access to low-cost weatherization materials and a contractor arranging service that selects a contractor to do the energy conservation

Nor has it required the imagination of Alice, with its dodo birds and dancing computers. Still, like all her productions, it has cost Henderson considerable time—she estimates that even with a crew of two to 14 she spends about 20 hours per week on her work during the two or three months before a play.

Although she would like to make money at her job and has made Halloween costumes for pay, she confesses that she does it for the fun of it. "It's a hobby," she says, "a passion."

ADAPTING HARDWARE

The success of any window treatment hinges on the quality and design of a hidden element, the hardware. The selection and positioning of traverse rods, poles, tie-backs and hooks all contribute to the look and movement of the final product. Most window treatments benefit from symmetrical positioning. Some require special treatment to cover irregular shapes. All demand adherence to practicality in their use. To address all these factors, it makes sense to work closely with the window-treatment specialist. His knowledge of hardware may make a treatment adaptable, where others may have rejected it as unworkable. It is often the hidden elements that point the way to success.

If you need assistance in making decisions regarding your draperies or window treatments come to the specialists...the folks at GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER. You can feel confident our suggestions will always take into account your budget constraints. At GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER our staff never uses any high pressure tactics so stop by our showroom at 581 Chickering Rd., Rt. 125, 683-4870 and browse around at your leisure. Pee Wee A's Earn Title

The Pee Wee A's tied Reading and lost a heart-breaker to Newburyport over the weekend.

Andover faced off against Reading at Tyngsboro on Saturday. Despite being shorthanded, Reading jumped in front halfway through the first period. With only two minutes left in the period, Brian Flanagan scored the tying goal on a rebound of a shot by Ryan Moynihan.

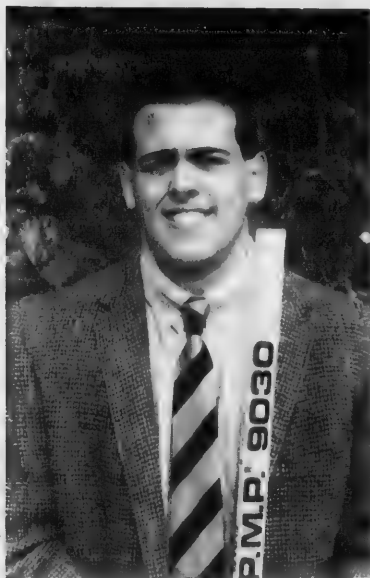

Reading took a one-goal lead in the second period on a powerplay. Finally, with less than a minute to play in the game, Moynihan got a lead pass from Flanagan and tied the game at 2-2.

On Sunday Andover faced off against Newburyport at Wilmington. The game remained scoreless through the first two periods as the defense and goal-tending for both teams were outstanding. The game came down to the final minute of play still scoreless when Newburyport broke out from their own end and fired a hard shot high into the Andover net with only 38 seconds left in the game.

Andover pulled its goalie in a desperate attempt to tie the game, but with eight seconds left, Newburyport scored an empty-net goal for a 2-0 win.

The loss was Andover's first this year in the Valley League and it enabled Newburyport to share first place as the two teams are tied at the top of the standings.

Captain

Lou LoPresti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. LoPresti of Andover, is captain of the boys' varsity hockey team at Tilton School in New Hampshire. LoPresti, a senior, served as defensive captain of the varsity football team, playing backfield positions. He will be a member of the golf team during the spring season. LoPresti is also a member of the athletic committee, the senior advisory committee and UNICEF committee, SONU, "Support Of Non-Use" (students against drug use) and volunteers as a skating coach.

Set Varsity Swimming Records

Geoff Schaaake, Sean Herlihy, Chris Hart and Matt Jennings set a new Andover High School varsity record in the 400-yard freestyle relay at the North Sectional swimming and diving championships.

The team swam a 3:44 at the Merrimack Valley Conference championships the week before and proceeded to chop off another three seconds at sectionals, taking the time to a 3:41.

Senior tri-capt. Hart was seventh in the 100-yard butterfly while Jennings was 12th in the 200-yard freestyle.

Hart placed tenth in the 100-yard butterfly in a seasonal best time of :56.88 at the state championships at Springfield. The freestyle relay team of Brian Mayberry, Schaaake, Corey Ouellette and Jennings again set a new school record with a time of 3:38.20.

Down The Years

sented is "Sowing Wild Oats." of "Uncle John's Private Secretary." a farce in three acts.

50 Years Ago — March 1939

The Andover League of Women Voters will hold its annual Town Warrant meeting on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Music Room of the Junior High school.

Several speakers will participate in the discussion of the Town Warrant. John Erving, who was appointed as a member of the committee to investigate possible sites for a new town house, will discuss the various articles in the warrant pertaining to that matter, and he will also discuss the school budget, from the standpoint of a school committee member.

Though February is the shortest month of the year, and the library was open only 23 days, it had the largest use in its history. The Memorial Hall issued more than 9,000 books, and at Ballardvale 874 were borrowed, making the total circulation for home use more than 10,000 volumes. This is an increase of 1689 over February of 1938, and is the first time the monthly use has exceeded ten thousand books. The average daily circulation was 401, but on February 23, the Memorial Hall issued exactly 600 books.

On Sunday afternoon at 4:15 Dr. Carl F. Pfatteicher, Director of Music at Phillips Academy, will continue his series of recitals of the organ works of Johan Sebastian Bach.

"Creed of a Schoolmaster" by Dr. Claude M. Fuess, headmaster of Phillips Academy, will be available at book stores and stands, Saturday, March 4. Author of "Daniel Webster" and "Amherst: The story of a New England College," Dr. Fuess has also written for magazine publication three boy's stories and four biographies. At present he is working on the life of Calvin Coolidge and upon its completion he plans to take the initiatory steps toward the writing of other biographies of contemporary American statesmen.

For the first two months of 1939 the Board of Public Works spent on snow removal and sanding $7,000 less than for the same period a year ago. Through February 27 $4383.18 had been spent, whereas a year ago $11,684.76 had been spent.

It is understood that the board has decided to do a number one job on the next snowstorm, a much cleaner job than the last, but yet without the waste that has brought expenditures to such a high level in the past years.

The new sound motion picture, "Highlights and Shadows" dramatizing the story of photography, will be shown at the Square and Compass Club meeting this evening. It traces the steps man has taken to transmit his ideas through pictures, making photography perfected and popular. Brilliant camera work and clear comment are combined to show further the research and manufacturing facilities that contributed to this achievement.

Four contests, none of them for the high-salaried positions but all of them very important, will appear on the ballot as Andover's voters go to the polls Monday. All six precinct houses will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Impact

ment, Downs agreed to allow their questions.

But, other than discussion over language in some articles, the rest of the meeting was non-controversial.

Among the articles discussed was a first-time proposal to charge impact fees to housing developers.

The fee, said Mahony, would be a cost charged developers to offset the heavy impact housing tracts have on town services such as schools, police and fire coverage, water and sewer service.

"I feel it is appropriate to make sure (developers) do all the things they say they'll do," said Mahony.

But an impact fee would eventually be passed on to the entire neighborhood, not just the developer, said Selectman Jim Barenboim.

The developer would pass the costs to those who buy into the subdivisions, hiking the overall price of their homes. Nearby residence values would rise to match the new tract, and the owners would have to pay higher taxes, said Barenboim.

Mahony responded by pointing out that, although taxes would be higher, neighboring homes would also be worth more.

"There are some reservations I still have," about impact fees, he said, "but we need to put this before the community."

The proposed article calls for citizen approval of the impact fee concept. If given a vote of confidence, town officials would bring a specific formula for assessing the fees to a subsequent town meeting.

Articles put on hold for more information included:

- A bid from the fire department to approve a $280,000 aerial pumper. Originally Fire Chief Harold Hayes asked for $180,000. Selectmen called for Hayes to appear at their March 6 meeting to explain the difference.

- Several zoning bylaw amendments proposed by the planning department.

- Articles with incomplete financial data, such as unexpended appropriations, anticipation bonds and certain unpaid bills.

Fire Log

The following is a report of the activities of the Andover Fire Department from Feb. 21-27:

Feb. 24 - 131 River Road, Day's Hotel, smoke detector; Gradall lane, James Devine, investigation; 4 Agawam Lane, Dr. Charles Ellis, gas dryer malfunction; Railroad Avenue, Andover Commons, smoldering chair; 133 Bailey Road, Evelyn Edmonds, investigation; 131 River Road, Day's Hotel, accidental alarm.

The fire department ambulance responded to 24 calls during this same period.

Country Club Development Larger

By Frank Messina

The Planning Board gazed upon a preliminary plan to build 182 homes in and around the Andover Country Club golf course with varying degrees of incredulity and suspicion Tuesday night.

In and around the golf course?

Yes, according to a large color site design unfurled by developer Paul Ferrante of Dana Perkins and Associates. Property lines on several plots extend deep into fairways along the country club's 18-hole course. On at least one hole, golfers will be teeing off from a neighbor's backyard.

However, a similar concept was part of the original plans submitted by country club owner Cormier Andover Inc. in 1984. What appears to have changed, said board member Michael Houghton, is the project density.

Houghton said the original project asked for 112 units. Now, developers are looking for another 70 units on approximately the same land, some 241 acres. "It appears to be a much more intense use," said Houghton.

"I don't believe it is (70 units more), I'll have to check my figures," said Ferrante.

As planned, the houses would be build on 20,000 square foot lots in cluster configurations.

Chairman Russ Moran echoed Houghton's concerns about density and added that intense school and traffic studies would be needed before final approval.

Richard Tritter, 5 Haskell Road, claimed the proposed development flew against a 1982 Zoning Board of Appeals decision banning any "expansion of services."

The board continued a vote on the matter to their March 14 meeting.

Railroad Square Plans Altered

Developers of the Tyer Rubber plant have changed their original concept for turning the historic buildings into retail/office space use.

Approved by the Planning Board last year, the Stern Co. unveiled plans for Railroad Square, a stylish indoor mall concept featuring flourishes like a glass-enclosed atrium connecting the two existing buildings.

Financial considerations, along with a need for more exposure to passing motorists on Main Street, prompted Stern Co. to draw new plans making the development a single building with all entrances facing Shawsheen Village. Office space will be rented upstairs, and six retail stores will take residence on the first floor, said president/owner George Stern.

Stern said a tenant for about 50 percent of the office has been found. A marquee store for the retail shops has also been wrapped up; however, Stern declined to identify either tenant.

The amended plans were approved by the Planning Board last month with construction scheduled to begin soon, said Stern. The plans show 29,500 square feet of retail space and 18,065 square feet of offices.

As of Tuesday, the only technicality left was the deposit of a $125,000 performance bond to construct a traffic signal at Main Street and Railroad Avenue.

Traffic issues were the Planning Board's main concern. Railroad Avenue meets Main at the top of a steep hill then turns sharply.

Studies conducted by the consulting firm of Vanasse, Hagan and Brustlin Inc. showed that a full traffic light would be needed at the intersection.

To Rename Field As Tribute To Ted Boudreau

Plans are underway to dedicate the Doherty Middle School baseball field to the late Theodore "Ted" C. Boudreau, who taught science and coached baseball in Andover for over 30 years.

While growing up in Andover, Boudreau played on the field, which was then known as the Andover Playstead and represented the area in an all-star game at Fenway Park in Boston. He went on to play minor league baseball as a catcher for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Known as "Mr. B." to students, colleagues and friends, he was also the public address announcer for all home football and basketball games at Andover High.

A date has yet to be announced, but a memorial baseball game will be played, and a monument or plaque will be dedicated to the popular teacher and coach this spring, said athletic director James Hurlay.

Dziadul

Monday night, Dziadul called implications he interfered with negotiations "totally false. I resent them."

"How could my basic inquiry damage negotiations, and why am I the only inquirer singled out by the manager?" asked Dziadul.

Mahony and Finance Director Tony Torrisi, who received the original phone call from Dziadul, had little comment except to say they both stood by statements they had made to the press.

The selectmen declined to get involved in the controversy. Only Selectman Gail Ralston spoke out with a brief admonishment for Mahony and Torrisi going through the media rather than "dealing directly with the individual."

Asked by Chris Holmes, 14 Whispering Pines Lane, why the board wouldn't discuss the issue, Chairman William Downs said the furor was just another election campaign controversy.

With the town's main post office moving from the downtown area last month, Mahony has supported using space in the Old Town Hall as a small postal outlet for downtown merchants and residents.

Currently in the final stages of renovation, Old Town Hall is expected to be open sometime this spring.

Owner Linda Ruscio

North Andover Interior Design

North Andover Interior Design is a rapidly growing new full service interior design business serving the Andover area. Contributing to its success are many satisfied customers who are recommending the high quality of the materials used, fine workmanship and affordable prices. The initial interview with the client is free with no obligation and, thereafter, fees are a sensible $35.00 an hour.

Owner Linda M. Ruscio fills a need for high quality merchandise at reasonable prices. Linda stresses that there is no sacrifice of quality for the competitive prices she offers.

A typical consultation with Linda consists of determining a floor plan considering spacing and balance, ideas for furniture selection, window treatments, carpet, wallpaper, reupholstering and accessories. She will determine the likes, dislikes, colors and styles favored by the customer. This becomes the "master plan" which is proceeded with at the client's pace. They will work around existing furnishings that need to be kept, items of sentimental value and budget considerations. She brings samples for you to consider in the comfort of your home and provides shopping service.

North Andover Interior Designs has access to many furniture lines, encompassing all aspects of home decorating. Furniture is delivered directly to the customer's home.

Linda Ruscio may be reached by calling 794-3445.

The only position that has attracted a large field is the B.P.W. membership. Here two are to be elected, with the first place pretty generally conceded to Edward P. Hall and the second depending a great deal on the strength of J. Harry Playdon, only incumbent. Clifford Marshall, Philip Hardy, William F. Barron, Matthew Burns, Robert V. Deyermund, George F. Riley and George Brown are the other candidates.

25 Years Ago — March 1964

Monday is election day—all six polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. And contests for Selectman and School Committee will be decided. So, too, will the voters act on police salaries and medical insurance for retired employees.

The Planning Board plans to present a negative report on zoning requests for North Main st. The warrant article asks for a change, to allow a business zone along the street in front of the Washington Park apartments.

Sharply divergent opinions on police pay question, and on industrial development, highlighted a generally listless candidates' night Tuesday at the High School.

A tax rate increase of $4—bringing the rate up to $33—is flatly predicted by the Finance Committee in its report to the voters.

The budget this year is $575,000 greater than was appropriated just a year ago, the report asserts.

A warning that secondary school construction will be requested later in the year—with a subsequent tax rate increase—is also contained in the annual report.

Andover's American Field Service foreign exchange students Gunnar Solbraa and Gretha Schermerhorn from Andover High School and Kiyoshi Konso from Phillips Academy spoke at a Junior High Assembly of ninth graders last week.

Peter Lint, instructor at Phillips Academy, who had spent a summer in Greece as an AFS student when he was in high school, introduced the speaker, explained the AFS program and showed pictures of his experiences in Greece.

10 Years Ago — February 1979

Shawsheen river flooding in late January caused upwards of $2 million in damage in Andover, according to current estimates, with the most serious problem facing the town at present—repair of the trunk sewer line.

Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark said this week that authorization has been received to spend up to $400,000 to repair the trunk sewer line broken when flood waters undermined a section of the pipe in the South Lawrence area.

The cost of operating most Andover town departments will be either the same as last year or lower, according to figures discussed this week by Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark and the selectmen.

Selectmen expressed pleasure at the figures presented by Clark who noted that all department budgets were remaining the same or being lowered, with the exception of the Community Development Department.

The school committee voted 5-0 Tuesday night to hire the accounting-consultant firm of Peat, Marwick & Mitchell to come up with detailed written agreement for computer software and to help the school department get its financial systems and other related efforts on to the new computer by July 1.

Two special sessions of the board of Registrars of Voters have been scheduled to permit new voters to be eligible to participate in the annual town election.

The Commuter Rail Study committee has asked that persons who received the survey forms mailed this past week, return them as soon as possible. The survey is being conducted in order to determine the desirability of restoration of train service between Boston and Andover.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Ann Campbell, G.R.I.
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

ARE MORTGAGE INSURANCE COMPANIES TIGHTENING UP?

Private mortgage insurance (PMI) protects lenders against customers who cannot pay their mortgages after they've purchased homes, and the business has become riskier in recent years. Generally, if your down payment is less than 20% of the purchase price, you will be required to buy a PMI policy as a condition of loan approval.

Over the past few years, there have been more defaults, especially in areas where agriculture or oil play a big part in the economy. ARM and faulty underwriting policies among some lenders have also contributed to losses. PMI is now more expensive, and standards for issuing policies are tighter. Because each lender has arrangements with only a few companies, it's not really possible for a consumer to shop around for a policy with the most reasonable rates or terms. Even though the PMI companies are scrutinizing borrowers more closely, you can still buy a home with less than perfect credit.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Realty USA Schruender Real Estate. Please call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

Crackdown On Out-of-State Plates Nets $17,000

By Frank Messina

A six-month crackdown on Andover car owners using out-of-state license plates should add over $17,000 to town coffers this year, said police.

Massachusetts residents looking for an expensive Mercedes or Porsche can save thousands of dollars buying in New Hampshire—a tax haven state that doesn't charge sales tax, said Sgt. Arthur Ricci.

The investigation, spearheaded by Officer John Pathiakakis and bolstered by on-duty patrolmen, found 221 vehicles that didn't comply with state law. Massachusetts code requires car owners to register their vehicles within 30 days of residency, said Ricci.

Overall, 96 Andover citizens complied by making a trip to the Registry of Motor Vehicles. Another 108 were either short-time visitors, students, or wound up junking their cars.

The 17 cases left are in RMV hands. The registry could potentially fine and restrict the offending vehicles from being legally driven in Massachusetts, said Ricci.

The police supervisor praised the work done by Pathiakakis and many other officers in the department.

Following a tip, Pathiakakis tracked down one Mercedes owner who stopped every day and changed state plates to escape detection. Several others were found hiding the cars—with New Hampshire plates attached—in their garages.

"Officer Pathiakakis would generally just call them into the station and go over the law with them," said Ricci.

Many citizens have dual residency, which turns out to be a summer house in New Hampshire. "We go by tax records, whether they have kids enrolled in school," said Ricci.

The investigation was sparked by citizen complaints. "Then we start noticing a lot of out-of-state plates," said Ricci. "That usually gets the ball rolling."

Committee Chairman Sees Tight Rein On Spending

By Frank Messina

Looking to drop a subtle hint to town officials about the need for a capital improvements plan, Finance Committee Chairman Joanne Marden told a joint finance meeting last week that Andover can expect tight budgets for the next few years.

With revenue from new construction dwindling and large bond debts becoming due over the next few years, citizens should get used to the hold-the-line style budget this year.

The key, she indicated, is a school bond debt scheduled to be retired in 1992. In 1993, Andover's total bond payment will drop from about $4.79 million to $3.1 million. Until then, the town must keep a tight rein on its spending, she told the gathering of School Committee, Board of Selectmen and FinCom members.

Also critical to town employee groups and school teachers, she said. Although both town and school budgets have money set aside for pay raises, the contract talks could affect the proposed fiscal 1990 budget.

Revenue from new construction, which isn't affected by Proposition 2½ restrictions, has also slowed as the Massachusetts housing boom wanes. Town income from development has decreased the past two years, she said.

Marden indicated afterward that she hoped to call attention to the need for a capital improvements plan. There is a vital need to set priorities for large town projects, and town hall has been slow to provide an overall picture, she said.

She presented her report at the joint meeting to make town officials aware that money will be tight, not only this year, but at least through 1993.

"I hope someone was listening," she said.
